

MARCH BREAK BOOT CAMP: ORGANIZING FOR CLIMATE JUSTICE

It's no longer possible to ignore the deep and far-reaching impacts climate change is having - the question is, what are we going to do about it?

This course invites youth who want to make a difference in their communities to an immersive six-day experience where together, we will tackle the issues of climate justice and learn practical skills to become more resilient and engaged citizens.

Over the course of 6 jam-packed days, students will:

- Critically analyze the ideas and debates surrounding climate change and climate justice
- Build practical skills in community organizing, resilience and DIY
- Work collaboratively to solve pressing challenges facing our communities

Open to students currently enrolled in, or having completed, high school or CEGEP.

This course may be taken for university credit or as a general-interest course (auditing).

Dates: Monday March 16th-Saturday March 21st, 2020

Location: Saint Paul University, Ottawa, ON

Interested? Contact Professor Amanda Wilson: awilson@ustpaul.ca

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL INNOVATION
ÉLISABETH-BRUYÈRE